

Freedom In Her Eyes

Words & Music: Greg Champion, Grant Luhrs, Andrew Clermont and Pat Drummond (3.59)

I don't know just what it was if she just fell for him because
The place; the time; the planets were in line
They say that opposites attract and she had something that he lacked that lit the flame of freedom in his eyes

Life was never meant to be such a sad and safe routine and taking chances never was his style But she was such a wayward child that something in her cosmic smile lit the flame of freedom in his eyes

Chorus: Life is made for taking chances

One thing that we know Living well means often learning to let go

He quit that job and they hit the road
Freedom like River flowed
He never knew the ride could be that wild Each day brought what it might bring
And no forever wedding ring
Could bind the flame of freedom in their eyes Love is made for taking chances

Chorus:

He woke up and found that note
And as he read the words she wrote
He felt a smile of bitter-sweet surprise For more than all the things they were More than what he felt for her
He loved that flame of freedom in her eyes
Freedom in her eyes
